

Average Marion County Farm Has 118 Acres Valued at $7,200, Survey Shows

Farm Agent's Report Also Shows Two-Thirds of Farm Income Here Is from Live Stock.

Following is the third in a series of stories based on information from the report listing 1929 activities of the office of the Marion county farm agent.

An interesting collection of facts concerning farming in Marion county is contained in a summary of a land use study appearing in the report of the late County Agent S. L. Anderson for 1929. The study, made by Mr. Anderson and Marshall Whisler, associated with the agricultural economics department at Ohio State university, was closely allied with a farm management study which was reported in a previous article in The Star.

The land use summary showed: The average size for farms in the county is 118 acres; land and buildings are valued at $7,200 or $60 an acre.

About 73 per cent of the land is rotation cropland, about 27 acres per farm; 23 per cent of the land is pastured, leaving four per cent for non-cropland.

Figures on Soil Depletion
More than 125,000 acres or 68 per cent of the total cropland in the county is in soil-depleting crops, including 57,000 acres of corn. Twenty-seven per cent of the cropland is in hay or rotation pasture.

The survey showed that corn acreage has increased tremendously. In the period from 1850-59, the census placed corn acreage at 32,000 acres. From 1910-20 the figure was 72,000 acres. However, the 1920-30 period showed only 53,000 acres.

The number of cattle in the county remained about the same over the 80-year period. Sheep declined from about 85,000 head to 28,000 during the period. The report shows that two-thirds of the farm income here is from live stock sources. In 1929 the gross cash receipts were set at $2,223,000 and in 1935 at $3,607,000.

Another interesting part of the study involved farm tenancy. It was estimated 31.6 per cent of all farms in the county are operated by tenants. The average productivity of rented farms is 88.7 of the county average, which was set at 100.

The study also showed that 11.6 per cent of all the farm land in the county was tax delinquent in 1929.

A break-down by townships of some of the more interesting figures follows, the figures in each case representing averages for the various townships.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Backache may be warning of the kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are the chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffing under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with stinging and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. They are sold everywhere. They are sold everywhere. They are sold everywhere.

Fund Left by Benjamin Franklin 150 Years Ago Beggars for Borrowers

By The Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18 — The fund left by Benjamin Franklin 150 years ago for loans to needy borrowers, which has been a borrower in more than half a century, is still trying to get some money to borrow from a fund Benjamin Franklin left to Philadelphia 150 years ago for loans to needy borrowers.

The fund for 30 years under these conditions, the board of city trustees, which administers the fund, has amended Franklin's will a second time to make the offer more attractive.

The old philosopher who calculated his gift would grow to $20,000,000 in 200 years, stipulated that a borrower must:

- Be a "young married artificer" under 25. (An artificer is a skilled workman whose trade requires an extensive period of training).
- Have served a regular indentured apprenticeship in Philadelphia.
- Pay 5 per cent interest.
- Borrow less than $300.
- Put up as security a first mortgage upon real estate in Philadelphia.
- Produce "two reputable citizens who will testify to his moral character."

Junior Chamber To Mark Twelfth Birthday at Monday Night Banquet

Presentation of Plaque and Key, Talk by Former Governor of Hawaii Among Program Features.

A multiple purpose will be fulfilled by the banquet at Hotel Harding in which the Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber will join Monday night.

For the Jaycees it will be their participation in National Junior Chamber of Commerce Week, Jan. 16-23, marking the twenty-first anniversary of the Junior Chamber movement and the twelfth anniversary of the Marion group. It will also be featured by presentation of the plaque and key awarded annually by the Jaycees for distinguished community service. The plaque will go to an older resident and the key to a young man.

The Jaycees will also entertain their employers, the event also serving as the annual "Bosses Banquet."

Hawaiian To Speak
Speakers will be Lawrence M. Judd of Honolulu, former governor of Hawaii, secured for the occasion by the Chamber of Commerce.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce movement started in St. Louis and became nationalized in 1920, since then spreading throughout the United States and several foreign countries. Today there are approximately 750 local affiliated groups with a basic membership of 110,000 young men in 48 states, Alaska and Hawaii and associate members in foreign lands.

Nationwide Organization
William Bradley, president of the Marion group, pointed out that the United States Junior Chamber operates in a closely knit structure with state organizations serving as the connecting links to the individual chapters.

Junior Chambers are concerned fundamentally with public service. On a nationwide basis they devote their efforts to such projects as Americanism, youth welfare, conservation, sports, city beautification, fire prevention, safety, aviation and many others. In engaging in such activities, the young men develop a sense of civic responsibility which endures through life.

Participation by young men in city, state and national affairs is not new. Perry Pipkin of Memphis, Tenn., national Jaycee president, recently listed a few outstanding examples, including Washington, William Pitt, Napoleon, Shakespeare, Sir Isaac Newton, Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton and Benjamin Franklin, all of whom achieved the greater portion of their success before they reached the age of 30.

BUCYRUS AUTO IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Special to The Star
BUCYRUS, O., Jan. 18.—Ellsworth Baldwin, 31, of Bucyrus, was driver of an automobile in an accident in which an aged retired grocer was killed at Columbus yesterday morning.

According to a Columbus news report the man, Anna G. Miller, 72, was struck by Baldwin's car as he walked across North High street to his home after cleaning snow from a neighbor's walk. The accident occurred about 6 a. m. Baldwin sounded his horn and put on his brakes in an effort to stop, but the car skidded into the elderly man and across High street, carrying Miller's body on a tender for 80 feet, police reported. The car struck an iron mail box standard and slid into a yard.

Neither Baldwin nor Charles M. Clady of Bucyrus, a passenger, was hurt, according to reports.

Japan's in the Navy Now

JAPANESE politics, never transparent, have clouded up more than usual with appointment of an admiral, Mitsumasa Yonai, to head the new cabinet.

The army has been running Japan. Some navy men charge it has been running the country to pieces, meaning the military adventure in China. The navy, as a whole, is more conservative than the army in Japan.

Navy men aren't especially interested in China. They operate in a larger sphere—the Pacific ocean and its numerous seas on the Asia coast. They do their thinking on an international scale like all navy men.

Their job is to keep any other power from interfering with the army while it stamps "Made in Japan" on everything within the Japanese "sphere of destiny." They take it seriously.

Part of the navy job, therefore, is to keep a finger on the United States, which is preparing to abrogate an important treaty of friendship and business with Japan. The United States, Japan has been told, does not approve of what the army has done and is doing in China. Thus, the army's problem becomes the navy's responsibility.

Perhaps that explains why the next premier, instead of being a general, is going to be an admiral. While the new premier lasts, it's probable the army will have to play second fiddle. How long he will last is a wide open question in a country that maintains open season on politicians.

Swords From Plowshares

BEFORE fighting became a specialized occupation, bowmen and sharpshooters used the same weapons for game that they used for men. "Economic dislocations from war" weren't worth considering.

Artillery and the rise of mechanized warfare, making sudden death more efficient, produced the economic headache known as a war boom. No nation is immune.

Battleships, tanks, big guns, submarines, bombers, machine guns are for specific purposes. Whether worn out in use or discarded because of obsolescence, they represent a net economic loss. Except for a few things like trucks and clothing, military equipment has no conversion value to peacetime use. Swords can't be beaten into plowshares.

But plowshares can be beaten into swords. Factories can be converted to manufacture of munitions. The U. S. maritime commission is reported ready to ask for bids on two passenger liners that could be converted into naval airplane carriers. Freighters can be armed, strengthened with armor plate and converted into raiders. War's "economic dislocations" can't be averted but some of them can be made less painful by foresight.

Pardonable Confusion

TVA's request to congress, transmitted via President Roosevelt, for authority to develop the Tennessee valley as a national playground adds one more political selling point to this costly project.

Mr. Roosevelt, who chides Americans for thinking electric power is the main idea behind government spending in the Tennessee valley, must admit their confusion is pardonable.

Various TVA has been sold as a national defense project, a flood control project, a public power project, a social uplift project and now by golly it's going to be an amusement project too. It all depends on the way you look at the thing. There even are some who insist it's a project in utter futility.

Advanced Thought Symptom

ON THE word of the American Municipal association, "a new type of interstate municipal cooperation has been launched by officials of cities in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania." Mayors of 10 cities in New York and Pennsylvania and representatives of municipal leagues in the three states attended the launching recently in New York City. Here, it might seem, is the germ of a great new idea—a symptom of advanced thought in local government.

Money was, of course, the main thing considered. Everybody agreed that cities need more of it and that real estate, the willing horse, already is being worked to death. So far there's nothing new or startling. But delegates had ideas about raising money too. They thought states could collect sales and use taxes, gross receipts taxes, wage and salary taxes and gross income taxes to make the mare go; the proceeds would be shared with the cities, of course. They also thought that if state governments assumed the cost of education, public welfare and highways, and the federal government took over airport costs, everything would be better.

Somehow, every time public officials get their heads together to cooperate they always decide to do two things: First, spend more money; Second, make someone else pay the bill.

News Behind the News

Conflict Between President and Congress Over Foreign Policy Shown in Finn Issue.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — The delicate but strongly rooted inside conflict between Mr. Roosevelt and his congressional leaders over how far this country should go in the European war could not be presented more plainly than in their scuffling over the Finnish credit proposal. It shows as well as anything how Mr. Roosevelt works. But even more, it indicates his personal program of constantly edging up to help the democracies, inch by inch, to the utmost "short of war" and the contrary determination of congressional leaders to keep him from stumbling into what he intends to stop short of.

Paul Mallon

Mr. Roosevelt did not mention Finnish credits in his opening message to congress. He took up the subject privately with his quartet of leaders a week ago last Monday in an unannounced confab. Then he submitted non-committally the proposition of a $50,000,000 loan to Finland for any purposes including military (the Brown billside). Messrs. Garner, Barkley, Bankhead and Rayburn spoke determinedly to him against it. Their ground, since developed publicly, was that Finland is at war; a loan is intervention; intervention is war. The United States might as well declare war against Russia and meet the issue honestly. Mr. Roosevelt did not commit himself directly, but some if not all the quartet assumed he was of the same view; they went back to their jobs, passed the word around the Finnish loan proposition was dead.

Loan Proposal

Five days later Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference the Finnish loan was a matter for congressional leaders to decide and he would not be considered in a partisan light.

The inference drawn by his somewhat bewildered hearers was that the Republicans in congress must be holding up the proposition. The newspaper rushed to Republican Leaders McNary and Martin, who dropped back in surprise and asked in turn: What Finnish loan? We (they said) never heard of it.

Four days after Mr. Roosevelt announced this was a matter for congressional leaders to decide, he sent his deciding message to Messrs. Garner and Bankhead, in person, suggesting a loan of some indefinite amount should be made to Finland through the Export-Import Bank to promote the buying of agricultural and industrial products in the United States, but not military products (incidentally the navy two weeks before had let Finland take for cash some of its planes which were about to be delivered).

Backfire

Hardly had the message been read in the senate than Democratic senators heard in the cloakroom that Mr. Garner thought it would be a very unwise move. Although it had been stripped of its military aid features and disguised as a move to "promote American agricultural and industrial exports"—which is a legitimate purpose of the Export-Import Bank through which the loan could be made—there was a feeling among Democratic senators that Mr. Roosevelt was inching up here to the inch that would break the rule. Promptly they decided to send the recommendation to two committees instead of the usual single committee. They did this to make sure that if the first committee, the senate banking committee presided over by New Dealer Senator Wagner, did not kill it, the second would. The second one named was the senate foreign relations committee upon which Senators Borah and Johnson wield an influence that the administration has not been able to surmount on other similar issues.

Want To Make Sure

All this hauling and stalling may sound complicated but it could be incomprehensible only to some citizen who just came in. Mr. Roosevelt openly announced in his message he wanted to take a short cut of war to help America's friends in Europe; resultant congressional comment on the speech was non-committally forbidding. Congressional sentiment also favors helping all friends "short of war" but obviously is doubtful that Mr. Roosevelt can stop where he says he is going to stop. The congressmen want to make sure.

Coasting—British Style

Save the Momentum and You Save All, Writer Advises.

BEST advertised characteristic of Englishmen is willingness to make the best of things under difficulties. It goes without saying that Americans think some of the difficulties are insurmountable, such as lack of central heating. On the other hand, some of them merely are annoying—like the difficulties that visiting Englishmen encounter in this country.

One of the annoying difficulties, increased enormously by war, is the scarcity of coasting, always expensive in Britain but now exceedingly difficult to obtain at any price. Typical of the English attitude is an article on Coasting by R. E. Davidson in the London New Statesman and Nation. With a pip-pip and tootle-de-do air, Mr. Davidson tells how to save gas in the light little island.

"Coasting," he starts off blandly, "dismissing what Americans learned about coasting in the early wheeling era, 'when practiced to its limits, assumes three distinct forms, viz:

"Coasting up to foreseen stoppages without the use of brakes." "Coasting short distances on the level by declutching, using the clutch and throttle to reaccelerate when the pace becomes undesirable."

"Coasting down gradients."

Mr. Davidson gets into analytical stride.

"Analyzing each item separately," he writes, "the coast up to a foreseen stopping point is actually an integral part of good driving."

SEE a traffic light ahead, showing red, or a halt sign; or a house at which you intend to stop. The rough and clumsy driver allows the engine to propel the car till he is nearly level with his stopping point, and then applies his brakes fairly hard. By this method he saves a perfectly worthless fraction of time, but imposes necessary wear on his brakes and tires, and uses petrol (gasoline) which could be conserved. So few drivers coast to a stoppage that they have no conception of the wastage involved. A modern car running over tarmac under power generates so little friction in its wheel bearings or between properly inflated tires and the road surface that it will coast on the level for an amazing distance if the gear be thrown into neutral position, and the engine switched off; on the level a car will readily cover one hundred yards in this fashion. Not one driver in a thousand can bring a car to rest opposite a selected gate by this method without using his brakes more or less; and practice of the feat adds a definite interest to driving.

"The second form of coasting," Mr. Davidson says, "has no merit at all except that it economizes fuel. Under normal conditions nobody employs it. It simply means that the car is accelerated on the flat up to a predetermined and economical speed—say 30-35 miles an hour; and is then declutching. This is how to do it."

"WHEN speed drops to 15 to 20 miles an hour, the clutch is reengaged and the car once more speeded up to the selected maximum; and so on ad infinitum."

Quite an appreciable saving of fuel will be registered, but the trick has no other attraction. It is a laborious and irritating method of travel, adopted simply and solely to cut out an exiguous fuel ration. Nor is the saving very pronounced, as the engine runs on its pilot jet when declutching.

"The third form of coasting—descending hills in neutral—is far more attractive, and in hilly country may be enormously economical. All good drivers habitually employ the method, and many authorities regard it as the most pleasurable form of motoring, especially if they own rather fussy little cars. The speed is limited only by the severity of the gradient and by any other considerations (such as bends) suggested by safety."

"On a few British hills 80 miles per hour can be safely employed by this method. The sole objections to this method are the risk of brake failure, and the chance that a clumsy novice may damage his gear box in reengaging a gear toward the foot of the hill. The method should therefore never be employed unless both brakes are found to be in first class order—after all, quite a minor mechanical mishap may suddenly deprive the car of its footbrake, and quite a number of modern cars (especially some of foreign manufacture) are fitted with handbrakes which are designed only for parking purposes, i.e., for maintaining a car in a stationary position, rather than in pulling it up from high speed."

Rights Upheld

CHARLESTON, Miss.—Citizens hereabouts now have official consent to make their customary trips into town Saturday to chew tobacco and talk politics, and they can go in school buses, too.

A line recently went into court asking that folks who own school buses be prevented from giving their neighbors free rides back and forth to town. "It hurts business," the operator complained.

But Chancellor R. E. Jackson answered: "From time immemorial citizens have gone to town on Saturdays. Once they went by buggy. Now by grave roads and legislation it is hazardous to be on the highway in buggy or wagon. This court believes it is the right of the American people to go to town on Saturday and chew tobacco and talk politics."

"This court believes too, those folks have a right to catch a ride with his neighbor who owns a school bus. This court has had that experience and will be the last to take away this God-given right of the people."

Important Railroad

Control of Leningrad-Murmansk Line Vital in War.

UNCONFIRMED reports tell of Finnish troops severing the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad. Allied forces held the line as far south as Lake Onega, less than 400 miles from Leningrad. In October, 1919, allied troops finally withdrew.

The bridge the Finns claim to have blown up to cut Russia's communication with Murmansk is at Tampa, about 100 miles inside the Arctic circle. About 240 miles of the road's 800 are inside the circle. Until it was built, all transportation was by means of reindeer; there were no highways.

A bulletin from National Geographic society points out there is no other railroad in the north situated as far north. "For six weeks," the bulletin says, "there is no night during summertime at the railroad of Murmansk, the Soviet Union's ice-free port. The sun stays above the horizon during that time." The bulletin continues:

"EXCEPT where turned from its course by glacial lakes or arms of polar seas, the railway runs almost due north from Leningrad to Murmansk on the Kola peninsula. Begun as a military 'highway' in 1914 the line was cut yardstick-straight through uninhabited forests and snow-crusted wastes without zig-zagging to towns. In order to speed troop movements, breakdowns followed summer thaw as train service began in 1916 because tracks, in places, had been laid across ice which engineers mistook for solid frozen earth."

"The railroad fulfilled Peter the Great's dream of a Russian port open for year-round shipping. As early as 1895 the country cherished a plan for such a road, and in 1914 when the existing railroad from Archangel proved inadequate to handle the supplies the Allies poured into Russia for use against Germany the emergency brought about the more northern railway."

"Construction was pushed at breakneck speed through frozen swamp and lake country, with thousands of laborers imported to a region hitherto scarcely inhabited. Wooden boardwalks were built over swamps for the workmen. Miles of tracks were carried on piles over water or ice. Rolling stock was purchased from the United States to equip the new line, and service began in 1916. Recently, much of the route was electrified, far-northern power stations substituting for fuel."

TWO years after completion the railroad became a battleground. Rumors of a German-Finnish campaign against Russia's arctic outlet at Murmansk brought a landing of allied troops to defend it in July, 1918. With British and French forces, came also American troops, notably a Minnesota regiment. Landing by the authority of the local government, the allies later refused to honor

Old Timer Passes

FERDINAND, Ind.—At 80, Ferdinand Boeking, last of the wooden shoe cobblers who served southern Indiana's German-speaking farmers, has quit work and given his bench and tools to a museum.

His retirement marked the end of a handicraft industry brought from Europe more than a century ago. Boeking, who learned the trade from an immigrant shoemaker, had made wooden shoes 50 years.

He recalled that when he was young a pair of birch or willow shoes sold for 15 cents. They were the warmest kind of footwear, he said, and everybody wore them. At church, said Boeking, farmers would leave their shoes at the door and hear the sermon in their stocking feet.

Pep Messages

We Like the Canned Sent

Telegraph Company But C

Some Possibilities of Err

By DAMON RUNYON

THE Western Union has a "pep message" we like. It has gone to a lot of typing ready-made messages appropriate to events—marriages, birthdays, wedding anniversaries, holiday greetings, deaths, though we have not seen if you are in a hurry or too greatly agitated to devise words of your own, you can step up to a Western Union desk and find a file of various forms, some in technicolor.

On each form you will note a dozen or more neatly contrived messages, each numbered. You just pick out one to your fancy, indicate it by a check mark against the number, write in the name and address of the party to whom you wish to send it, hand it to the operator with the fee, and that is all there is to it.

We understand this system was some genius partly as a public convenience and an economic measure. This observed the enormous waste in penning up by message senders who could not serve in the mood for composition.

The genius also noted the loss to many in blanks on which the messages would start to write, then crumpled throw away, taking another blank to start. Computing the number of blanks at eight or 10 to every one it will be seen this must have been item. The ready-made message but eliminated much of this loss beside the ill health produced among the copy clerks through trying to decipher writing of messages personally composed by the senders.

RECENTLY we felt called upon to message of congratulation to a married couple both noted for their speed in the interests of time-saving we a Western Union office, made a marriage message rack, got what was a blank belonging to that department. The very first message on it, packed it and blithely went our way. A certain coolness on the part of the clerks when we met up with them. Our discovery of the "pep message" was inadvertently got hold of one of them and instead of the flowery felicitation thought we were sending, what the clerk received from us was: "Win or lose you."

We were greatly embarrassed by, of course, but it could have been might have sent them one of the "kiss intended for small children on the day of their birthdays, good morning, have a good day, so forth. It would have quite awhile to explain to that couple accidentally deciphered cheer up 1400 of the "kiddiegrams," to wit: now, get well soon so you can drop throw away that spoon."

IT SEEMS that "pep message" form signed for football enthusiasts who to send words of encouragement to football coaches, individual players, a whole. We like the "pep message" we think they should be extended to sports, and in fact all fields of endeavor. As a suggestion for a "pep" to a pugilist on the eve of an important fight, we offer: "Hilt that jockey on it. Or: 'Hello, chum, knock that bum down come.'"

Speaking of pugilists, we note that "message" forms, Western Union has the annals of the manly art of scuffling and lifted as appropriate to football time greatest "pep message," which that a devoted mother sent to her girl. YOUR HEALTH

ITCHING

Before me a very interesting case, written by one of our dermatologists in Stokes, on the subject of itching. In spite of the fact that the patient was very experienced in the skin, he confesses that he does not know what is the common symptom of itching, like pain, or a sensation of exactly what the ordinary sensations of feeling are. Why should the skin of the skin at all be itching and at all be itching?

Many abnormal irritations of the skin will cause itching. The skin of a small amount of moisture, the mosquito's salivary gland, the burrowing of the mite in the skin itself, the reaction of the skin to food, as in eczema, will all cause itching.

A common cause not usually membered is atrophy of the skin and removal of the natural secretions by too much soap and water. In winter weather, especially, elderly people should remember this. They are often troubled by itching when they are certain there is no inflammation or insect as the cause of it. In these people it can be seen that the skin is thin and dry. It is wrong to prolong the habit of taking a daily bath in middle age, especially in winter, as this irritates an already atrophic skin.

CHAPTER THREE

Murder

THERE was nothing I could do but to go back to my own room, without an electric light bulb. As I turned back I had the uncomfortable feeling that someone was watching me from the stairway leading to the third floor. I made myself look up. "After all," I thought, "this is a New York apartment, not a haunted house."

The light was so dim I couldn't make out whether it was a man or a woman crouched near the top of the stairs. But there was someone there. As I leaned forward to see better the person moved quickly up to the third floor hall. And somewhere upstairs a dog barked shrilly. I knew one thing. It wasn't a dog I'd seen.

Feeling more bewildered than frightened, I stumbled back to my cold, dark apartment. After a few minutes distracted search, I found my cigarette lighter and, holding it in one hand, I tried to lock the door with the other, but whether it was nervousness or in the excitement I chose the wrong key, I don't know. Anyway the door wouldn't lock. Then I was scared. I could hear footsteps on the stairway and finally Mr. Kimball calling to me from the hall. I jerked open the door so quickly that Mr. Kimball, with a lighted candle in his hand, nearly fell over.

"I seem to be giving you a lot of trouble this evening," he said apologetically. "The fuse burned out and it wasn't until a moment ago that I remembered your apartment was on the same circuit as the hall. I've been in the cellar trying to fix it, but I'm about as handy at that as with the furnace."

I had the uncomfortable feeling that someone was watching me.

"I was frightened out of my wits," I admitted.

"We called the company," he said. "They'll send a man around right away."

I took the candle, forgetting to mention that the door wouldn't lock. Mr. Kimball said good night and went downstairs.

The room was so drafty that the flame flickered and I got into my pajamas it blew out.

Intruder

After I crawled into bed I lay there with my eyes wide open, too tired to sleep. The studio windows looked large and bare without curtains and beyond the window at the head of my couch I could see the shadowy outline of the fire escape. That fire escape! My eyes were glued to it. I expected at any moment to see someone or something climb in, and I was afraid to get up and lock the window.

But my fears about someone entering by way of the fire escape were unfounded; the person who burst into the room came from the hall.

It wasn't the sound of the opening door that caught my attention. It was the faint streak of light across the room that made me sit bolt upright, my scalp tingling and a good old-fashioned chill running up and down my spine.

"Who's there?" I managed to gasp.

"Oh, my God!" came a man's startled exclamation.

The door slammed shut and I heard hasty steps down the hall and then the sound of knocking. Well, I lay there frozen to the bed. To save my life I couldn't have moved a muscle. After a minute or two of silence loud voices came in from the hall, a man's and a woman's, and they seemed to be quarreling. I didn't move. I just huddled under the bedclothes afraid even to see if the lights were on; and never taking my eyes from the door, I waited for morning.

All night long it seemed to me that people were going up and down the stairs, passing the door. Finally I must have dozed, because it was broad daylight when I awakened, still feeling cold, and conscious of someone screaming outside my door.

I jumped out of bed and ran to the dresser for my watch. It was half-past eight. I could hear someone in the hall now, so I slipped into my mules, pulled my robe over me and went to the door, opening it cautiously. A girl in a dark dress and blue gingham apron, apparently the maid, was lying in the hall flat on her back. A woman was bending over her. A short, stout woman in a green and yellow bathrobe with her hair down her back in a gray wavy braid. As I came into the hall the woman jerked upright, her eyes bulging.

Scared To Death

"Who are you?" she shrieked. Hastily I tried to explain and the woman, though seemingly slightly mollified, still regarded me with a dubious eye.

"Bring water," she said. "There's been murder."

"Murder?" I echoed, looking down at the white face with a shiver.

"What was that?" She cupped her hand to her ear.

I stared at her. "Is she dead?" I asked, and motioned towards the girl.

"Not her," she said in a matter-of-fact voice. "The other one, in there."

She pointed towards the open doorway of the apartment next to mine.

the floor beside the girl, looked up at me. "Bring water," she said. "She's fainting."

Stumbling back to the apartment, I filled a glass with water, but my hands were shaking so badly that by the time I got back to the hall the glass was almost empty. I just stood there, staring, as the woman moistened a handkerchief and put it on the girl's forehead. My mind was in such a turmoil I couldn't speak.

"Pull yourself together," the woman said heavily without looking up. "We can't have everyone fainting."

With tremendous effort I straightened, but when I tried to tell her I was all right the words were lost in my throat. Perhaps this woman had exaggerated, I thought wildly. Anyway, how did she know it was murder? There must be something I could do.

I was scared to death, but I walked over to the open door of the apartment. When I first glanced around there was nothing out of the ordinary. The room was terribly cold—one of the windows was open—and the curtain was blowing about, wet and bedraggled. A little drift of snow lay on the rug under the window and I realized vaguely that the blizzard must have kept up all night.

Holding my breath, I walked in a few steps and forced myself to turn to the far end of the room. There in a mirror was a reflection,

OLINA Told Her Mother to Leave Her Phone Call

OLINA drank the coffee, proffered her hand, shut her eyes, obeying her injunction that she was as inwardly as she had been, but she, at least, was outwardly docile, and I believed that I could reach her conscience—and her conscience—with some of the things I had to say. But it was all two minutes before she opened her eyes, sat up straight in her chair and said formally, in a cold, tight voice: "I will listen to whatever you wish to say to me."

ing her, for I did not wish to appear eager to begin the conversation. And when I did speak, I tried to make my voice impersonal but friendly. "In the first place," I began, "I am sure you will agree with me, when you consider matters calmly—and justly—that your mother is too strong a character to be influenced by anyone in so important a matter as her marriage. If she has decided to marry Mr. Veritzen, it is her own decision, uninfluenced by any other person."

speech was as calm and impersonal as my own. She was struggling to appear regally poised. "I know only this," she said precisely. "My mother told me a while ago that she would not marry Philip Veritzen now because she was penniless. This morning she sent for you, and you had an interview with her. Just now she told me that she had decided to marry Mr. Veritzen when he again asked her, and I imagine he does that every time he comes over here."

"I could only reach one conclusion," she went on coldly. "You must have told my mother something which changed her mind. Didn't you?" she demanded, with fierceness again in her voice. "I told your mother something I had discovered, which it was her right to know," I said, purposely making my voice icy. "Whether or not it had any effect upon any question she was deciding, I do not know."

Phone Talk Revealed As I talked, I mentally apologized to old Sapphira, for I knew I was what Harry Underwood calls "leaving her at the post." But I did not intend to betray that fact to OLINA. The knowledge could do her no possible good, an would undo everything that I was trying to accomplish. "But I think you will be more interested in something else we discussed," I said. "She was very much interested—naturally—in your secret, nocturnal telephone conversation with Mr. Veritzen, and was anxious to know what you could possibly request of him at that hour."

Her face paled. "So you weren't asleep, and you told her that, too," she said coldly. "No, I was not asleep," I told her calmly, "but I did not have to tell your mother about the incident. She also was not asleep, and heard your conversation. She also heard you speak to me, and realized that I must have heard what she said more clearly than she did because I was nearer the telephone than she was. So she summoned me, not because she wished to discuss Philip Veritzen, as you think, but because she naturally was vitally concerned as to whether her daughter was surreptitiously telephoning Mr. Veritzen at that hour in the morning."

Plan a Failure "Did you tell her all that you had heard?" OLINA asked. "Yes," my answer was curt, and I saw her shiver. But at least she was brave, and her next question was directly to the point. "Did you hear everything that I said to Mr. Veritzen?" she asked. "Every single word," I answered. "What did you think I meant when I told him I had tried to do what he wished, and could not?" "I am sure I know, OLINA," I told her gravely, "but it would do neither of us any good to discuss it. Suffice it to let me tell you that you did not succeed, and you never will succeed in that particular venture. Have you anything else you wish to ask me?"

S.S.S. Tonic is the choice to increase the appetite...to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them. The facts are simple because of all conditions affecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown...lack a keen appetite...have lost weight...don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal. S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again. In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways...first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy. Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. tin is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price of S.S.S. Co.

BRITISH MUNITIONS FACTORY BLOWS UP

Undetermined Number Killed in Series of Blasts.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Jan. 12.—A series of rapid-fire explosions in a north London munitions plant today killed an undetermined number of persons, injured 50 and damaged houses in a radius of two miles.

(Information received in New York indicated the plant was the royal gunpowder factory at Waltham Abbey.)

Police said the blasts were accidental and involved "no enemy action."

Explosions shattered thousands of windows, caused many ceilings to drop and resulted in many minor casualties due to falling debris.

A great column of flame and smoke roared upward, leaving a thick mushroom of smoke over the area.

Police kept spectators far from the plant as fire brigades inside the works fought the flames.

Many civilians fled to air raid shelters when the explosions were heard, believing the city was being bombed. Said one woman:

"We made a bee-line for a dugout. Five minutes later we thought it safe to come out and saw a great column of flame over the works," the royal gunpowder factory at Waltham Abbey.

A woman two miles from the plant described the blast as "a terrible boom as though a bomb had dropped in our front garden. It blew my front door right off the hinges."

had portrayed the Russians as bringing up reinforcements for a determining drive into the Arctic, but reports from Salla two days ago said the Finns had cut Red army supply lines and left the invaders with insufficient food for a winter campaign.

The cold, as low as 54 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, contributed vastly to the distress.

The Finns dressed in their warmest clothing and displaying unusual resistance to the cold, were reported closely pursuing the Russians, harassing them and seeking to strike heavily at the rear guard.

On other fronts the congealing cold also had its way. Military activity on the Karelian isthmus was immobilized.

Zero Weather Kills Many Russians

By The Associated Press
HELSINKI, Jan. 12.—Finland's great white ally—winter—was reported to have accounted for large numbers of Soviet dead among the land forces.

Finland patrols said they had seen hundreds of Red soldiers frozen to death at their posts on the Karelian isthmus front alone.

The invaders were said to be inadequately clad for the present record cold which ranged as low as 54 degrees below zero Fahrenheit in parts of Finland.

"It is the coldest death they could die," a Finnish officer said, "easier than being machine-gunned and more pleasant than being bombed. They simply fall asleep and after that whatever happens is not their battle."

The Finns have welcomed the coldest weather in 25 years. They have reason to believe that their men at the front are better prepared for it than their foe.

The equipment and clothing of Russian prisoners foster this belief.

If there was a strong first ballot swing to him.

Rep. Harter of Akron said he could not understand how convention delegates could be pledged "before they were chosen."

"The announcement is a surprise to me," he added. "How a state chairman can assume to speak for the delegates before they are chosen, I can't understand."

Charles West, former Ohio congressman, said yesterday after his fourth visit to the White House in recent days that he saw no inconsistency in delegates favoring renomination of Roosevelt while pledged to Donahay.

"There is no mystery about it, and Donahay will tell you the same thing," West said, adding the plan was "completely in accord with Donahay's ideas."

FARMERS, HUNTERS ASKED FOR IDEAS

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—The state conservation and natural resources commission wants suggestions from farmers and sportsmen.

To facilitate the communication of ideas, the commission yesterday decided to establish seven district offices and request residents in each section to select a committee to advise the state headquarters on conservation problems.

George Trautman, commission chairman, said "we are determined to give the farmers and land-owner protection, insofar as is legally and physically possible, from the abuses of the unthinking hunter."

District committees will be composed of one representative from each county and two persons to be selected at-large by farmers and sportsmen. District offices will be opened at Olney, Norwalk, Ravenna, Cambridge, Columbus, Eaton and Waverly.

BAPTIST WOMEN OF DISTRICT HERE TODAY

Missionary Societies Holding Quarterly Meeting.

More than 100 women, representing the Women's Missionary societies of the Marion Baptist association, attended a quarterly meeting at Trinity Baptist church today. The morning session was devoted to reports and a devotional talk by Rev. J. B. Holloway of Ironton, who is conducting evangelistic services at Trinity church.

Mrs. C. G. Ritzler of Marion, a member of the Green Camp church and president of the societies, presided. Mrs. H. E. Neace of Mansfield, Baptist state student counselor, was to talk this afternoon. The women of Trinity church were to present a pageant, "Our Ohio Spreads," interpreting the work of the 20 missionary women from Ohio in the home and foreign fields. A pastors' conference followed the basket dinner.

FARMHAND KILLS 3, THEN BURNS HOUSE

Youth, 22, Faces Triple Murder Charge in N. Y.

By The Associated Press
SIDNEY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—A 22-year-old farmhand admitted today he shot and killed three members of a Masonville, N. Y., family and then finished his farm chores because he "didn't want to be cruel to the animals." State Police Inspector E. A. Maynard said.

The farmhand, James Fink, was arrested in Reading, Pa., yesterday when he and a companion, Aubrey Serum, 21, asked the proprietor of a filling station for gasoline. They were returned to Sidney state police barracks today.

The bodies of Frank Teed 60, his wife, Helen, 66, and their daughter, Ruth, 25, were found Monday in their burned farmhouse near Masonville.

Maynard asserted Serum became involved as an accessory after the fact when he confessed he suggested to Fink, Teed's employee, to burn the home to conceal the crime.

SEEK TO FORCE HEARING ON BILL

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—An effort got under way in the senate today to force consideration of legislation to give the courts a new and more powerful veto over rules and regulations issued by executive agencies.

The bill, by the late Senator Logan (D-Ky.), was passed by the senate last summer and then reconsidered at the request of administration lieutenants. It now is on the senate calendar.

The judiciary subcommittee which originally handled the measure scheduled a meeting today to see what could be done about getting the senate to consider it. Senator Austin (R-Vt.), a member of the group, told reporters:

"The legislation does a very fundamental thing, by giving the citizen a right of appeal to the federal courts from laws—some call them rules and regulations—imposed by executive agencies."

NITRO EXPLOSION CALLED ACCIDENT

By The Associated Press
GIBBSTOWN, N. J., Jan. 12.—Explosion of three tons of nitroglycerine at the Dupont plant of the DuPont powder works, killing two men and injuring five, was put down today as an accident.

"I see no reason to suspect sabotage," declared Colonel Mark O. Kimberling of the state police.

That possibility drew attention of both state police and the federal bureau of investigation immediately after yesterday's mid-morning blast. The DuPont company manufactures war materials at some plants.

The explosion shattered windows and jarred buildings for several miles around. A 10-foot deep crater, resembling a battlefield shellhole, was torn in the frozen ground where stood a small building devoted to processing nitroglycerine.

British Speculate on Chamberlain's Rule Over Cabinet

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
British Premier Chamberlain's sensational jettisoning of War Minister Hore-Belisha, and the ensuing public clamor of protest, inevitably have revived speculation as to the probable length of life of the Septuagenarian's chief-ship.

There are plenty of political sharpshooters, especially among the younger generation, who long have been running for the aging but agile Mr. Chamberlain, and his present venture into no-man's land has given them fresh opportunity. However, this isn't the first time, and it probably won't be the last, that the pugnacious statesman has paraded in the open with a kang-froid which has disconcerted his enemies.

Chills Bluff of House

It was worth a laugh, the way the premier told the house of commons in effect on Tuesday that it was none of that august body's business how he dealt with Mr. Hore-Belisha (pronounced Boleasha) or any other member of the cabinet. Chamberlain made the mother of parliaments like it, too.

It isn't often that the house goes out of its way to challenge a premier in the matter of a cabinet change. The previous time anything of this sort happened was a couple of years ago when youthful Foreign Minister Anthony Eden—beetle-brained and popular—resigned because of differences with Mr. Chamberlain.

That almost caused the downfall of the government. But the government didn't fall, and it isn't likely to go under now because of Hore-Belisha's resignation.

However, the incident is such as would worry a prime minister less self-possessed and less sure than Mr. Chamberlain. Still, it is quite possible that a real emergency would produce a demand for new leadership.

Strong Candidates
Should this happen there would be at least one strong prospect for the premiership. He is the famous Winston Churchill who recently was brought into the cabinet as first lord of the admiralty, that is, skipper of the king's navy.

Another possibility, surprising as it may seem, is Hore-Belisha. Mystery still surrounds his losing of his war portfolio, but the fact remains that he is one of the outstanding figures of the day, and he is smarter than mustard.

These are the two men who stand out at the moment, and probably either of them would give his good right arm to be prime minister. However, it is my personal view that Chamberlain wouldn't surrender his position without a vigorous fight, health permitting.

BRICKER LIKELY TO CALL ELECTIONS

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—There were reliable indications here today that Gov. Bricker would call special congressional elections soon in the 17th and 22nd districts.

Deaths of William A. Ashbrook, Johnstown Democrat representing the 17th, and Chester C. Bolton, Cleveland Republican of the 22nd, created the vacancies.

Successors would be elected to terms expiring Dec. 3.

It is understood that Governor Bricker took the position that he would be "shirking his duty" if he allowed the selection of successors to be deferred until the November election.

THREE AT KENTON IN NARROW ESCAPE

Special to The Star
KENTON, O., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Chester Rogers, her three-year-old daughter Mary, and son Chester Jr., aged 13 months, were recovering today after a narrow escape from death by carbon monoxide poisoning Wednesday. Mrs. Clyde White, a neighbor, said she heard feeble cries for aid before Mrs. Rogers became unconscious, investigated and found the three.

A physician and the Kenton fire department were summoned. Mr. Rogers, employee of a fertilizer company, was absent at time of the near-asphyxiation. A defective furnace flooded the home with carbon monoxide gas, investigators said.

RAILROADERS WON'T RIDE THE BUSES

By The Associated Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 12.—Five Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad officials have to be in Woodward, Okla., Friday for a corporation election hearing.

Loyal to the railroads, they refuse to make a four-hour bus trip. Instead they will:

Take the Katy (M-K-T) to Kansas City;

The Rock Island from Kansas City to Elk City, Okla.;

The Katy from Elk City to Woodward.

The trip, including layovers, will take 25 hours and 35 minutes.

FORMER BUCYRIAN'S MEMORY HONORED

The memory of Wilford Hamilton Pickens, 58-year-old Mason of Ancients, was honored when the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite class, Valley of Toledo of January 1940, organized by taking his name today in Toledo. The Associated Press reported from Toledo, Jan. 12, that the class was named first vice president. Mr. Pickens died 15 years ago.

MOTHER OF ALABAMA QUADRUPLETS

Here is Mrs. Clyde Short, mother of the Alabama quadruplets, Faith, Hope and Charity. The Short's live in a cabin back in the hills near Nauvoo. Short is a miner and tenant farmer. All four babies and mother are "doing fine" according to physicians. Quadruplet births occur only once in 1,000,000 times, according to medical records.

LONE QUAD BOY NAMED FRANKLIN

Babies Now Have Guardians and Lawyers.
By The Associated Press
NAUVOO, Ala., Jan. 12.—Alabama's four-day-old quadruplets all have names today. In addition to two guardians, an advisory committee and legal counsel.

The three girls were named Faith, Hope and Charity after the birth of the four infants Sunday to Mrs. Clyde Short, wife of a tenant farmer and part-time coal miner.

Yesterday their brother was named Franklin after a maternal uncle.

Dr. H. J. Sankey, country physician who delivered the babies by the light of an oil lamp, said he and their father had been named joint legal guardians.

Mayor P. L. Dodd headed an advisory committee, named with the approval of Short after gifts and proposals began to pour in from all parts of the country.

FINNISH ASSISTANCE IN NORTH URGED

By The Associated Press
STOCKHOLM, Jan. 12.—Former Foreign Minister Richard Sandler urged military cooperation of the Scandinavian countries today in a continuation of the budget debate in the riksdag (parliament) late last night.

"Last week's events have convinced me," said Sandler, "that the collaboration of the northern countries should not be limited to the Aland Islands (fortification) question, but should also embrace military cooperation."

Sandler's retirement from the Swedish cabinet Dec. 13 was reported partly due to differences over his stand that the then unfortified Alands should be fortified. Finland is reported to have fortified them to help keep open communications with Sweden during the Finnish-Soviet Russian conflict.

RETURNED TO PRISON

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—Arrested after completing a six-year term at Western penitentiary in Pennsylvania, William Dyer, 39, was returned to Ohio penitentiary last night to complete a 10 to 25-year term for robbery. He escaped from Junction City prison in 1933.

NEW STAMPS TO GO ON SALE JAN. 29

INDUSTRIAL DECLINE SEEN EARLY IN 1940

But It Is Not Likely To Be Long or Severe.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that an industrial downturn was expected during the first half of 1940, but that it was not likely to be prolonged or severe.

Officials emphasized that commodity prices appeared to be "less vulnerable" than on some other occasions when the industrial situation was similar. They pointed out that commodity prices had failed to respond to the 1938-39 recovery in industrial activity and consumer income until the outbreak of war in Europe.

The bureau said the domestic demand for farm products during the next few months might not be affected much by the downturn in industrial production which apparently began, it said, in the latter part of December.

The federal reserve board ruled December's industrial production on a seasonally adjusted basis at 128 per cent of the 1923-25 average—the highest index figure ever estimated by the board.

Officials said, however, that the record peak was a statistical illusion, adding that actual production of goods was greater in the spring and early summer of 1929 but did not scale as high in the index because of seasonal factors.

A decline in the index was predicted for the agricultural bureau reported that the war had reduced total exports of American farm products below the normal amount.

LONG'S DICTATORSHIP BROKEN BY VOTERS

Governor Must Go Into Runoff
Primary Feb. 20.

By The Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13.—Louisiana's voters, regardless of who they put in as governor, have smashed the only dictatorship ever established in the United States.

Returns of Tuesday's Democratic primary clearly indicate the absolutism set by Huey P. Long, who was elected in 1930, was broken by the voters.

Still incomplete returns from the first primary gave Long a commanding lead over Attorney Sam Jones of Lake Charles but he lacked a majority over Jones and the three other "reform" candidates. All indications pointed to a second primary February 20.

What happens in the second primary will depend largely on the disposition of the vote polled by State Senator James A. Noe of Monroe and Attorney James H. Morrison of Hammond and Vincent Mosley of Opelousas.

The latest returns, from 1112 of the state's 1,703 precincts, gave: Long 157,850 votes, Jones 105,927, Noe 81,059, Morrison 26,885 and Mosley 5,648.

MURPHY TAKES SEAT ON SUPREME COURT

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In the presence of President Roosevelt, officials high in the government and friends, Frank Murphy, new associate justice of the supreme court, took the oath of office today. At the same time Robert H. Jackson was sworn in as attorney general.

Mr. Roosevelt congratulated each on services already performed for the government and country.

Murphy moved up to the supreme court from the position of attorney general and Jackson succeeded Murphy, one-time governor of Michigan.

In a statement issued last night on the eve of his departure from the justice department Murphy denied "insinuations" that he had "suppressed possible proceedings against Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Hague of Jersey City and other political leaders."

Roger G. Jones, 59, Lima, O., incurred the wrath of Judge Kloeb when he approached attorneys in the federal court room asking them to represent him. Jones was accused of sending threatening letters through the mails to political enemies. Judge Kloeb probated Jones for six months.

NAVAL TONNAGE CUT PROPOSED BY VINSON

Action Would Reduce Appropriation Half Billion.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee proposed a $500,000,000 cut today in the pending $1,300,000,000 fleet expansion program, by eliminating 34 projected new destroyers.

At the opening of today's session, Vinson announced that he would ask the committee to approve a reduction in the total tonnage of the proposed expansion from 400,000 tons to 218,000 tons.

He said the bill as thus revised still would authorize three additional aircraft carriers of approximately 25,000 tons each, an unspecified number of cruisers and 34 submarines.

Vinson made it plain that the specific number of ships to be built would be left to the navy's discretion within the tonnage authorized. In that connection, he said it would be possible to build four cruisers of 27,500 tons each—compared with the present limit of 10,000 tons.

Larger cruisers have been advocated because of Germany's "pocket-battleships."

SHERWOOD PROBES RELIEF IN ATHENS

Seven County Officials Called Before Director Today.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—Accusations of handling relief matters inefficiently and in violation of state law, seven Athens county officials were summoned to the office of Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood today.

Sherwood charged that county relief records were inadequate, that there was no proper investigation to determine the eligibility of relief clients, and that an employee of the county commissioners was "interested in contracts to furnish relief supplies."

He said that in calling the three county commissioners, relief director, auditor, treasurer and prosecuting attorney to a hearing he was "simply complying with the law."

Two of the county commissioners, Ira Whitmore and Walter MacCombs, were arrested yesterday on charges of accepting bribes in connection with county purchases of limestone and road equipment. They are free under $2,500 bond each.

Ankara.

By The Associated Press
ANKARA, Jan. 12.—Turkey's second major earthquake in three weeks was reported today to have killed fifty persons and injured 160 in the Nigde district, some 200 miles southeast of here.

This district, which escaped the disastrous earthquake of 1938 which killed at least 30,000 persons in northeastern Anatolia, suffered a series of heavy shocks last night accompanied by terrifying underground rumblings.

New quakes were felt in the devastated region of the Dec. 26 quake, but about 200 miles northeast of the new quake area—but no casualties were reported from there.

In the western plains, swollen by melting snow floods, 15 more villages and caused landslides which crushed bridges. In this region late December floods killed at least 1,500 persons. The latest quake was a quake relief workers still busy among the ruins, helping inhabitants in their fight against cold, disease and hunger.

FATHER KILLS BABE THROUGH JEALOUSY

Mother's Devotion to Child Led to Act, Police Say.

By The Associated Press

McCabe, lodged in jail after pleading guilty to a murder charge, retained the company he displayed as he told police he was responsible for the slaying of his child on New Year's day.

The balding young WPA worker told guards at the Norris county prison he was "glad that my son died."

He murdered the baby by putting a pillow over his mouth. Woffindin quoted McCabe who he related yesterday the tragedy sequel to a quarrel with his pretty, brunet wife, Mildred, 19.

REVIVAL LAUNCHED AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Ironton Minister Gives First of Series of Sermons.

The first test of discipleship is the willingness to accept Christ's challenge to leave all and follow him wholeheartedly, Rev. J. B.
Halloway of Ironton declared last night in the opening sermon of his revival campaign at Trinity Baptist church.

"Such a move is not easy," he said, "for it requires real courage and great faith. The first impulse of a true disciple of Jesus is to go and tell others about him. Andrew sought his brother Simon and brought him to Jesus and he in turn became one of the prime movers in the kingdom enterprise."

"Unlimited possibilities are open to those who cut loose from lesser loyalties and give their utmost devotion to this sublime
Master of Life."

Irish Get Ready for Tough Battles With Crestline and Forest

Saints May Be Without Schuler for Two Crucial Cage Tilts.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

MARION ST. MARY'S cage combine will need to assume the role of a giant-killer to emerge successful from court warfare against two of North Central Ohio's toughest Class B combines this week.

Friday night's assignment takes the Saints to Crestline where supremacy of the League of Six Nations will be at stake. Returning to the home boards the following night the Irish play host to Forest, an unbeaten Hardin county quintet.

The locals will be crippled for the important pair of contests since Ted Schuler, one of the important cogs in Coach Bernard Berens' machine, may be idle. Schuler has a severely bruised shoulder, suffered at Tiffin Calvert a week ago, and the injury may bench him. He saw two minutes of action against Morral, the night after being injured.

Still Can Win

With or without Schuler the Saints have a fighting chance to sweep through both duels, but the task certainly would be made easier by his presence. The games are of equal importance for the Irishmen, who have copied nine of their first 11 starts.

League of Six Nations standings place St. Mary and Crestline side by side on the top rung of the circuit ladder. Neither has lost in two loop duels. Fostoria St. Wendelin, with a win in three games, is in third place and Tiffin Calvert has been relegated to the cellar with a trio of defeats.

Crestline has extended its current victory streak to six games, the latest triumph being over Willard, 35-24. Last year when the duellists shared the L. of S. N. championship, they broke even in a pair of meetings. St. Mary eked out a 26-25 win against the Crawford countians and lost to them by a 31-28 margin.

Hardin County Terrors

Saturday's foe has been the scourge of the Hardin county league. Coach D. Ray Baum's cohorts at Forest have an unblemished slate after eight games and although they have a league game at Dunkirk, are expected to have their perfect record intact when they visit the Marion Steam Shovel gym.

An especially attractive preliminary contest has been scheduled for the Saturday program, St. Mary and Central Junior High quintets being paired for the opener. Central a week ago rose up to make Vernon Heights, four-time winner of the city league title, and take over the steering post in the 1940 race. The Saint Juniors tripped Thomas A. Edson, so that the engagement between the pair of victors packs plenty of rivalry and interest.

Standings in the League of Six Nations are:

Marion St. Mary	W. L. Pct.
Crestline	2 0 1.000
Fostoria St. Wendelin	1 2 .333
Tiffin Calvert	0 3 .000

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—Gorlunde Ederle, the swim star, sails today for four months as guest instructor at the U. of Puerto Rico. Eddie Duchin, the band leader, now buys into the syndicate which now owns the Detroit Lions. Flash-Cutfish Smith, Georgia's former All-America end, now helping Rex Enright at South Carolina, will join forces with his old coach, Harry Mehre, before fall. Coach Eddie Anderson has turned down 150 speaking invitations since Dec. 1.

Main point of discussion among Ohio football coaches these days is the making of the state's outstanding college gridder by Southern schools which really lay it on the line. With more than 40 colleges playing football in Ohio, the coaches feel some sort of a fair trade agreement should be worked out to keep the boys at home.

If the Giants can outbid the other clubs for Benny McCoy, they'll play him on second, and shift Mike Witek, ex-Newark star, to third. If McCoy is smart he probably can collect the highest bonus ever given a free agent for signing a contract. Tops was the $25,000 the Browns paid Rick Ferrell when Landis freed him from the Cardinals. Newsweek fans are applauding when Connie Mack says in his baseball short: "Watch us in 1941."

One-minute interview: Miss Sonia Henie, often called the best-dressed woman in Hollywood, modestly disclaims the honor. "I have 100 suits," she is reported as saying, "but they are all in the superior court."

IT'S LEGS NOT FISTS

Johnny Kilbane, ex-featherweight champion, now teaching young boxers in Cleveland, believes a good pair of legs is more vital to a fighter than fists and come next to the brain in fighting equipment.

Ralph's, Bradley's Win 4th Straight

Ralph's Snappy Service and Bradley Clothiers, continuing their neck-and-neck race for Industrial League laurels, annexed their fourth straight victories last night. The clubs collide head-on next week in the final session of the league's first round.

Ralph's club went on a scoring rampage to defeat the Key Town Campers, 47-18, after being held to a 10-10 deadlock during the first stanza. Roy Green's 17 points for the victors was only one tally behind the evening's best individual total.

Bernard Berens again carried the load to push Bradley's Clothiers to another win, this time scoring 18 markers to thump the Midway Restaurants club, 40-35. Toward the Bradley team and Roy Green, Midway pivotman, each garnered 12 points.

Bibler Vaults hopped into lone occupancy of third place with a 45-34 victory over the Marion Business College. Lautenslager, with 15 points, and Bender, with 10, paced the winners. Summaries and standings follow:

Three Managers Forecast Cards Will Win Flag

By The Associated Press
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 18.—Managers of three National League clubs — two of them pre-season pennant contenders — reluctantly forecast today clear weather ahead for the 1934 edition of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I was hoping somebody would trade 'em out of some of their players," sighed William (Memphis Bull) Terry, field boss of the New York Giants. "They look too tough right now."

"The Cardinals," avowed Terry's fellow Memphian, Manager James (Doc) Prothro of the Philadelphia Phillies, "should win by 10 games. They've got a ball club that will give the Yankees all they want."

Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cub pilot, also named the Cards as his choice for the National League flag.

"But," Gabby warned, "we're going to be up there, too." The veteran catcher-manager is in Hot

Among those so honored are Robert Payne of Mt. Gilead, Harry Gossard and Jack Needy, both of Ada, George Keel of Kenton and Harry Myers of Gallion.

JACOBS DOES WELL
Twenty-three leading prize fights sponsored by Mike Jacobs in 1933, had a gross gate of $1,327,000. Biggest gate was $348,000 at the Louis-Pastor fight in Detroit.

A rank's McFadden, Clanton's All-America back, never did fumble footballs very much. When he was 11 he was hit by an auto while playing football in the street. He was knocked out but he still had his arms wrapped around the fender.

Court Okay Asked by Executor of Estate.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Tribune said today the First National Bank of Chicago, executor of the estate of J. Louis Comiskey, will ask court approval of a proposal to sell the Chicago White Sox baseball club.

Comiskey, who died July 18, 1933, named the bank as trustee of his estate, left in trust for Mrs. Comiskey and their three children.

According to the Tribune, a petition to be filed before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell by the bank will set forth that the sale of the club would be in the best interests of the estate.

The court will be asked to order sale of the stock in one block. Of the 7,500 shares, Harry Grabner, club secretary, owns 50 and the estate the balance.

Thomas J. Sheehan, attorney for Mrs. Comiskey, said the proposed sale would be contested. "We are prepared to fight this move to the utmost," he said. "The Comiskey family wants to retain possession of the White Sox."

The club has been in the Comiskey family since the formation of the American league.

Comiskey expressed a desire in his will that the club remain in the family but gave the trustee power to sell if such action were deemed "prudent and desirable."

The bank must seek approval from the American league as well as the court inasmuch as the league reserves the right to pass on the eligibility of bidders.

Attorney Sheehan said the White Sox were entirely free of debt.

Takes Blame

John A. Zeller (above), general manager of the Detroit Tigers baseball club, issued a statement saying that he would take the entire responsibility for the handling of players made free agents by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. More than 90 major and minor league players were freed from their contracts.

GOES TO THE DOGS
The Morris and Essex Kennel club show at Madison, N. J., became the world's largest exhibition of the dogs in 1933, surpassing the famous Crufts show of England with 4,556 dogs listed.

COCKER SPANIEL FAVORITE
American Kennel club records show the cocker spaniel is America's favorite dog. In November 1933 there were 15,572 registrations for the breed, an increase of almost 2,000 over 1932.

Three DiMaggios Aren't Unique in Baseball History

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The name of Di Maggio will be as common as Smith or Brown or Jones in the major leagues this spring and the prospect has entranced some of the baseball bugs. This is one of the little mysteries of insect life because baseball "brother acts" are as frequent as the trap and juggling families of the circus.

Right now the majors have Paul and Lloyd Waner, Dixie and Paul Deal, Wesley and Rick Ferrell. They have played with and against each other for years.

But in earlier days there were baseball families to overshadow even the Di Maggios.

One of the most famous tribes were the six Delephantys of Cleveland, four of whom attained major league careers about the turn of the century.

The Manush family of Tusculum, Ala., was probably larger than the Delephantys, although only two reached the majors.

The Mansell family of Auburn, N. Y., sent three brothers into the big leagues.

And going further back there were the Clarksons of Cambridge, Mass., all of them pitchers.

All of this means only that the Di Maggios aren't unique as a baseball fraternity. Joe of the New York Yankees, Vincent with the Cincinnati Reds and Dominick, the Boston Red Sox rookie, merely are carrying on a fine old custom.

WANT FOOTBALL BACK
By The Associated Press

Approximately 300 Chicago alumni, nearly a third of them former Maroon football players, adopted a resolution at a special meeting yesterday asking the board of trustees to reinstate intercollegiate football immediately.

Marionite Aids Bishops in Upset

These nine lettermen comprise the Ohio Wesleyan basketball team which staged a stunning upset Jan. 16 at Athens when it became the first Ohio college team to defeat Ohio university's fine basketball outfit. The score was 40 to 35. Jimmy Reiser, New Philadelphia, stellar football end, led the attack with 11 points. Jack Buttermore of Massillon held Frankie Baumholtz, high-scoring star, to five free throws, the first time in his college career that Baumholtz has failed to make a field goal. The others here with are Billy Rohr of Massillon; Dick Hartman of Findlay and Ed Barodoy of Geneva, N. Y., who, with Reiser and Buttermore, comprise the first team; Homer Forsythe of Cambridge, LaMar Faught of Marion, Harry Kirchweim of Springfield and Steve Denchess of Youngstown.
